

First draft of user interaction design

Flowcharts have been used to show the three main process that a user would take when navigating their way through the site. There is “searching for a book”, “viewing their basket/placing an order” and “viewing previous orders”.

Searching for a book

This shows the process of how a user would be able to search for a book.

Viewing the basket/placing an order

This shows the process of how a user would be able view their basket and then place an order.

Viewing previous orders

This shows the process of how a user or admin would be able view their previous orders
